Improve "Ask Cocky" to help you navigate through USC systems, and attach you with the correct people and offices to help solve your issues.

Navigating university systems can be challenging, whether it's connecting with the proper financial assistance or understanding how to utilize the health center. Having a chatbot that understands the algorithms by which the school operates will help students identify the paths to follow, tailored to their individual needs, which can benefit any part of the university.